

Dr (Brig) Sankar Prasad Gorthi pursued his medical education in Osmania medical college Army Hospital R&R and All India Institute of Medical Sciences. He joined Army Medical corps in 1984 and retired as Brigadier from Army Hospital R&R Delhi as Prof & HOD Department of Neurology. He is presently heading the department of neurology at Kasturba Medical College Hospital Manipal Udupi. He was awarded ML Soni award for best resident in AIIMS. He was awarded best research paper award in Indian Academy of neurology annual conference in 2001. He was decorated with GOC-in-C and Chief of Army Staff commendation in his army carrier. He was awarded a life time achievement award- 8th International prestigious Sardar Patel Award for Excellence in Neurosciences Research in 08 Feb 2014. He underwent observership in Movement disorders and Neuroradiology at National Hospital for Neurology and Neurosurgery queen square London in 2004 and 2017. He presented his research in Neuro-AIDS, AIDP, GCSF in acute stroke and Stem cell interventions in World congress of Neurology Sydney in 2005 and in American Academy of Neurologannual conference Philadelphia in 2014. He was organizing secretary of 57th Annual Conference of Neurology Society of India held at AFMC in 2008.